The subject property is in the unincorporated area of Supply, NC with Brunswick County in southeastern NC. The county has experienced substantial population growth, with a 22-24% growth from 2000 to 2024. The average household income is seeing a positive trajectory, reaching $105,058 in 2025. Educational attainment levels are on par with national figures, with a 35.9% of residents holding a bachelor's degree or higher. The area surrounding the property features a blend of medical offices. Small professional spaces, local retail establishments, and light industrial facilities. Its strategic location offers a balance between accessibility and seclusion making it an ideal setting for a number of different uses.

There is a single, 1 story vacant structure of 72,242± SFf roughly in the center of the property with 2 small office buildings in proximity totaling approximately 10,100 ± SF. These structures were built between 1977 and 1993 of steel and masonry. Onsite water, sewer, electricity, natural gas exists. Land to building ratio is approximately 16.42 to 1. Facilities have been proposed for various uses but given the demands of the area, several options for development are available. There are no physical constraints preventing development under the current zoning, so all permitted uses are considered viable at this point. Property is in Flood Zone X but not within the 100- and 500-year flooding (Public Records).

- The property is 31.6 usable acres with no unusable or excess acreage
- There is level topography at grade and no areas of wetlands
- Zoning is Commercial Low Density (C-LD) and access and exposure from Highway 17 is excellent
- The parcel is irregular in shape with strong visibility and good access from the southern side of U.S. Highway 17 North, Ocean Highway in Supply, NC
- In addition to the property being bound by Highway 17, which runs in a northeasterly/southwestern direction, it is surrounded by several occupied office buildings, a buffer of wooded areas and Doe Creek
- It is located 20 +/- miles southwest of Wilmington, NC and approximately 25 miles northeast of Myrtle Beach, SC

CONCEPT OVERVIEW

The property in Supply, NC represents an opportunity for any number of re-development projects*, including but not limited to multifamily housing, ambulatory or surgical facilities, retail sales and services, professional offices, and mixed-use environments featuring a combination of facilities utilized by a population daily. Research and development as well as business park uses are well suited for this environment. Because Brunswick County is a community that focuses on environmental impact and sustainable growth, projects are carefully thought out setting the stage for future projects.

Complementary to commercial and mixed-use development opportunity is the fact that Brunswick County's residential real estate market ended 2025 with a recording breaking performance and an unexpectedly strong December. In 2025, residential totaled over $3 billion with sales in the last month of the year having outpaced the previous year by 12% signaling continued buyer demand and strong market confidence.

A secondary consideration for the use of this property is that of a behavioral treatment center as the highest and best use based on past usage and the proposed use by previous property owners. As an income producing property and considering legal permissibility, physical possibility, and financial feasibility the current structure would be of good quality and in solid condition could be built out as an in-patient treatment facility after being stripped down to the studs in preparation for a major renovation.

Most Probable Buyer: In all cases, given the nature of the property and its income-generating potential, the most likely purchaser is a regional or national institutional investor, particularly one active in mixed-use development/re-development or in healthcare.

*Specific information on permissible uses is outlined in the Brunswick County UDO Use Table, <https://bit.ly/3Nlaj2Y>. Definitive answers on a specific property can be gained by contacting the Brunswick County Planning Department. Approval of the site plan is required for all proposed development activity including, but not limited to, single-family lots, individual businesses, non-residential developments, multifamily units, subdivisions, planned developments, special use permits, conditional zoning, change of use, or modification of a previously approved site plan.

AREA OVERVIEW

Brunswick County, North Carolina, is a coastal county in the southeastern part of the state known for its scenic beaches, historic towns like Southport and Shallotte, and a mix of suburban, rural, and resort communities. It was established in 1764 and sits along the Atlantic Coast, offering popular destinations such as Oak Island, Sunset Beach, Bald Head Island, and Holden Beach, which attract both tourists and new residents.

Over the past two decades, Brunswick County has experienced rapid and sustained growth, making it one of the fastest-growing counties in North Carolina. Its population more than doubled from roughly 73,000 in 2000 to over 136,000 by the 2020 census, and continued booming thereafter, with estimates placing the 2024 population above 167,000 and steady increases annually. Between 2020 and 2024 alone, the county's population grew by about 22–24%, outpacing state averages and even leading growth rankings among North Carolina counties.

This expansion reflects both in-migration and local development, as people are drawn by coastal living, relatively affordable housing compared with larger metro areas, and strong local infrastructure. Housing stock and residential construction have also surged, placing the county among the top in the nation for housing growth in recent years.

Economic development has expanded beyond tourism and retirement communities to include industrial and manufacturing investments that bring jobs and diversify the local economy, further supporting growth.

Overall, Brunswick County's growth story is defined by its transformation into a vibrant, diverse region with a rapidly increasing population, expanding economic opportunities, and a high quality of life anchored by its coastal geography.

AREA OVERVIEW

Supply, North Carolina, is a small, unincorporated community in Brunswick County, situated at the crossroads of U.S. 17 (Ocean Highway) and NC 211 (Southport-Supply Road/Green Swamp Road), and historically named for its role as a supply hub via the Lockwoods Folly River trade route in the 18th and 19th centuries. While it does not have formal municipal status or government, Supply functions as a focal point for the surrounding area, with essential services like the Brunswick Medical Center and local schools serving residents. Traditionally rural and defined by its quiet, scenic environment of forests, wetlands, and farmland, the community's allure stems from its proximity to coastal attractions such as Holden Beach, Oak Island, and Ocean Isle Beach, which makes it attractive to both full-time residents and seasonal visitors who enjoy easy access to sun, sand, and outdoor recreation.

As Brunswick County has experienced rapid population and housing growth in recent years, driven by an influx of new residents attracted to coastal living and relative affordability compared with larger urban centers, Supply has felt the effects of that broader regional expansion. While exact growth figures for Supply itself vary by source—with population estimates around 10,000–12,000 people depending on the dataset used—the area has seen increased residential development, new subdivisions, and more diverse housing options as demand rises. This growth reflects a shift from purely rural roots toward a community blending residential expansion and small-town character, as people relocate for both retirement and family life while still valuing the area's natural beauty and access to coastal amenities.
