JACK LONDON VILLAGE LAND

The 1.99 acre separately parceled lot is located at the Jack London Village in Glen Ellen, off Arnold Drive. It is in a Planned Community (PC) Zoning district. It allows for multiple uses including housing. The parcel was approved under a Master Plan for a commercial 22 room Inn with some shared parking. A rezoning would not be necessary as housing can be considered an allowable use in the PC District if approved under the Master Plan.

The General Plan Land Use designation is Limited Commercial. Limited Commercial land is intended to accommodate retail sales and services for the daily self-sufficiency of local rural or urban neighborhoods or communities in keeping with their character.

The 1.99 acre parcel at the north end of the Jack London Village is undeveloped and has been used for displaying artwork and to provide some parking. The property fronts Arnold Drive on the west side and Sonoma Creek to the east. The Jack London Village adjacent to the parcel consists of over 23,000 square feet of shops, restaurants, wineries, and boutique retailers. Glen Ellen has a shortage of available residential property. The property would be considered for a commercial Inn, or other residential uses such as condominiums, town homes, and possibly apartments.

AREA DESCRIPTION

Jack London Village is adjacent to this land parcel, located south of Glen Ellen on Arnold Drive. It is an historic area where Jack London had lived. The area is scenic with mature woodlands and a creek winding past the site.

Ashbury Creek flows to Sonoma Creek. Ashbury Creek is the site of the first mill that had once been used for flour production many years ago. The Jack London Historical Park is nearby and is a great site for hiking and visiting the remains of Jack London's residence.

Glen Ellen is only 6 miles from the city of Sonoma and is part of the Sonoma mountain area which has numerous wineries such as BR Cohn Winery, Benziger Family Winery, Mayo Family Winery and Valley of the Moon Winery.

There is the Quarry Hill Botanical Garden near Glen Ellen with one of the largest collections of temperate Asian plants in North America.

Glen Ellen is a rustic bucolic environment with a number of tours and attractions set among the creeks and woodlands and vineyards the people of Glen Ellen call home.

A future development of this parcel for housing whether it be a farm project or town homes or condominiums will have a high desirability factor for people looking for a less crowded environment.
