EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

2302 DEVEREUX RD offers a rare chance to own a freestanding retail / showroom building in West Glenwood Springs with immediate access to the I-70 interchange and excellent exposure to corridor traffic. Built in 2007, the two-story structure combines contemporary mountain architecture, large window lines and a prominent roofline that reads well from both Devereux Road and the interstate, creating a natural billboard for a destination retailer or experiential showroom concept.

Set on approximately 1.33 acres, the building is supported by generous on-site parking and efficient site circulation, giving retailers the ability to handle both destination customers and day-to-day neighborhood traffic.

The open floor plates and tall ceilings are well-suited for a range of retail and showroom uses—from outdoor recreation, home improvement and furnishings to lifestyle, specialty retail or other experience-driven concepts that benefit from strong visibility and easy highway access.

In addition to the main parcel, there is potential to secure adjacent outdoor storage area to the south under a separate lease, creating an attractive option for users who need both a polished indoor showroom and functional outdoor display or storage space on a single campus.

Overall, 2302 DEVEREUX RD pairs modern construction and ample parking with rare I-70 corridor visibility in a highly trafficked, tourism-driven mountain market—positioning the asset as a compelling regional retail / showroom opportunity.

ABOUT GLENWOOD SPRINGS, CO

Glenwood Springs anchors the western end of the I-70 Mountain Corridor and the junction of I-70 and Highway 82, tying together the Colorado River and Roaring Fork Valleys and serving as a regional hub between Denver, Aspen, Snowmass and the broader Western Slope. The community functions as a service center for nearby resort towns and bedroom communities, drawing shoppers, workers and visitors from across the region for retail, dining, healthcare and everyday services.

The city is best known for its hot springs, river recreation and proximity to world-class ski terrain, which support a strong year-round visitor base. Signature attractions such as the Glenwood Hot Springs Pool, Iron Mountain Hot Springs, Glenwood Caverns Adventure Park and Colorado River rafting help drive consistent leisure demand through all four seasons.

Local lodging has consistently outperformed peer mountain towns, with Glenwood Springs hotels posting around 70% average occupancy in 2021—among the highest in Colorado—and more recent reports showing hotel occupancy running near 75% year-to-date with June levels around 90%.

Layered on top of this is a robust statewide tourism engine—Colorado hosted more than 95 million visitors who spent roughly $28 billion in 2024—feeding steady drive-by traffic along I-70 through Glenwood Springs. This combination of regional hub function, high tourism volumes and strong hotel performance underpins a healthy retail and service economy and supports demand for well-located commercial properties.

AREA DEMOGRAPHICS

The Glenwood Springs area is a smaller but relatively affluent mountain market, with a stable, mostly working-age population and a strong base of households and families. Daytime population is boosted by workers commuting in for jobs in tourism, healthcare, construction and retail, which helps support year-round demand for goods and services. Higher housing costs and household incomes compared to many rural Western Slope communities reinforce Glenwood Springs' role as a desirable place to live, work and visit, creating a solid foundation for retailers and service providers.
