LOCATION DESCRIPTION

Located at the signalized gateway entrance to the South Bay beach cities, 901 North Pacific Coast Highway occupies a highly visible corner in Redondo Beach, California. This prominent coastal location sits at the primary transition point between Redondo Beach, Hermosa Beach, and Manhattan Beach, offering exceptional exposure and accessibility along one of Southern California's most heavily trafficked corridors.

The property benefits from extensive frontage along Pacific Coast Highway and Herondo Street, with daily traffic counts exceeding 90,000 vehicles, making it an ideal location for office, medical, and professional users seeking strong branding and visibility. The surrounding trade area is supported by dense, affluent residential neighborhoods characterized by high household incomes, young professionals, and established coastal communities.

Positioned just minutes from the Redondo Beach Pier, King Harbor, The Strand, and the Hermosa Beach downtown core, the location offers a rare combination of professional presence and coastal lifestyle amenities. Tenants enjoy close proximity to destination dining, fitness and wellness concepts, boutique retail, and public transportation, contributing to a highly walkable and desirable work environment.

The property consists of multiple contemporary two-story commercial buildings with ocean views, elevator service, on-site and subterranean parking, and multiple ADA-accessible access points. It is well established within the community and supported by long-standing medical, wellness, dental, fitness, and restaurant users, reinforcing its position as a premier professional destination within the South Bay.

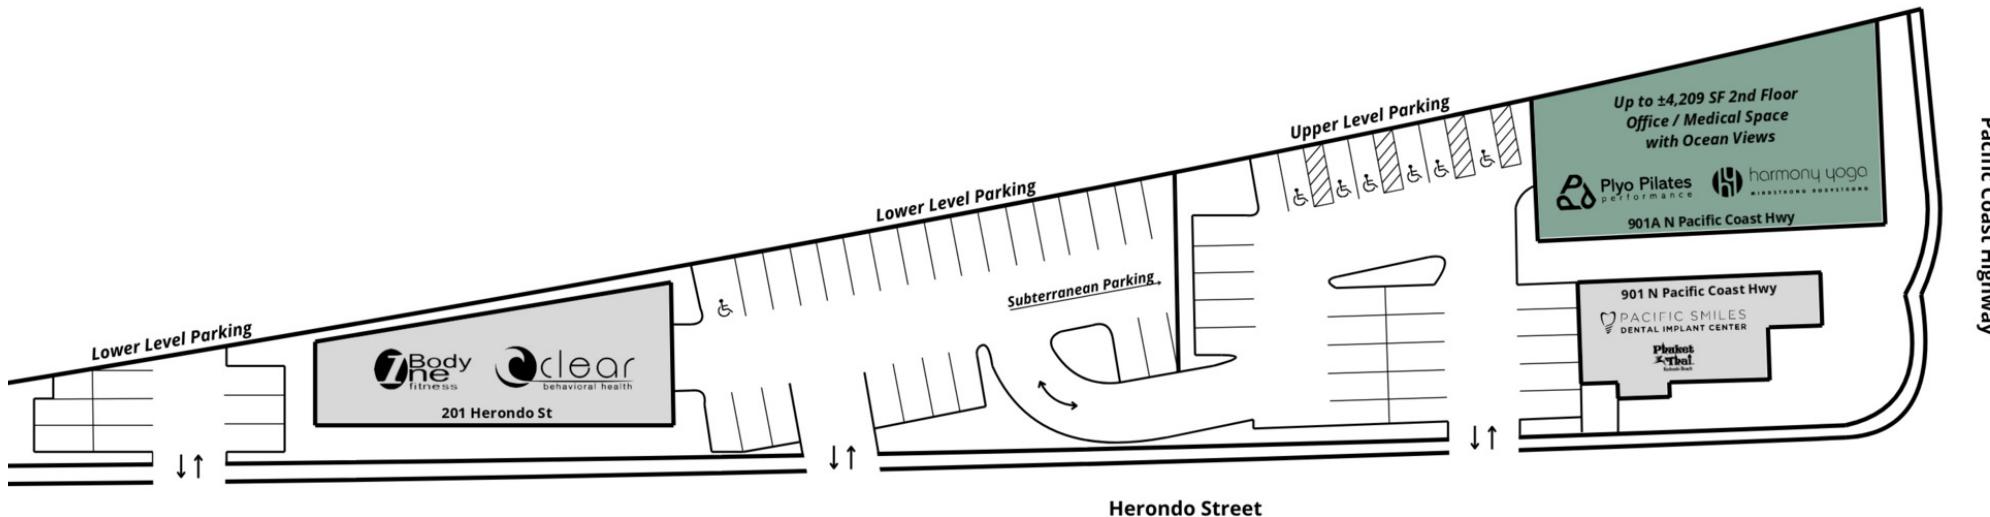

This location is well suited for office, medical, wellness, and professional service users seeking coastal visibility, convenient access, and a strong demographic profile in one of Los Angeles County's most supply-constrained submarkets.
