Area Overview

Leduc Common is an exceptionally well-positioned retail development, anchored by Walmart, Canadian Tire, and Rona. A handful of other major retailers including Sport Chek, Winners, and Michael's have recently added to the draw of this major power centre.

The centre is located in the heart of a rapidly growing Leduc market. Leduc's 2025 population is an estimated 39,264 people. The population experienced a significant increase of 14.8% in the last 5 years (2020 - 2025).

The trade area for this shopping centre is vast, and includes the daytime population of Nisku Business Park, which is home to approximately 1,457 businesses (within 5km). We estimate the secondary trade area for Leduc Common at 14,416 (2025 est.).

Leduc offers a significantly lower property tax rate than Edmonton, as well as a higher median income, leading to a strong workforce comprised of predominantly a blue-collar community. Unemployment as of 2023 currently sits at 5.9%, which is low compared to the Edmonton unemployment rate of 6.5% (2025).

The Edmonton International Airport (YEG), located 6 km to the north is a major employer, and many people within Leduc and neighboring communities rely heavily on the existing and future services on-site.

Many recent & future construction projects in the YEG lands (Premium Outlet Collection Mall, Century Mile Race Track & Casino, Bevo Sky Farms, among others), add to the workforce required from the Leduc labour market.
