Property Description

This ±294 acre property, currently in agricultural use, offers exceptional potential for future development. Comprised of two adjoining parcels, the land provides flexibility for data centers, distribution facilities, industrial campuses, residential neighborhoods, or acreage estates. With expansive open ground, strong road access, and visibility in a rapidly developing corridor, this is a rare opportunity for large-scale development. Developers and investors have the opportunity to transform this land into a significant commercial, industrial, or residential project depending on future zoning and development plans.
