Central Oregon

With a population of 104,557 (2023), Bend is the sixth-largest city in Oregon and the largest city in Central Oregon, serving as its de facto commercial, recreation and social center. Situated on the eastern edge of the Cascade Range along the Deschutes River, Bend joins forested mountain highlands and high desert plateaus, offering a diverse range of scenery and outdoor activities while offering relatively convenient access to major West Coast Metropolitan Areas.

LIFESTYLE

Central Oregon offers a rare mix of city amenities and restful isolation, including the slower speed of a small town with a medical community and infrastructure not normally seen in a region of its size. Additionally, Central Oregon residents maintain a work/life balance that is difficult to achieve elsewhere.

AIRPORT

Redmond Municipal Airport (RDM) offers daily non-stop flights to Burbank, Denver, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Palm Springs, Phoenix, Portland, Salt Lake City, San Diego, San Francisco, Santa Rosa, and Seattle. These destinations are served by airlines including Alaska Airlines, American Airlines, Avelo Airlines, Delta Air Lines, and United Airlines. The airport is undergoing a $170 million expansion to double its terminal size, adding a new concourse with seven jet bridges by 2027.
