FRONT STREET DISTRICT

Capital City's Signature Retail

The name, "Front Street" ties this development to the nostalgia of the original location, a bustling riverfront thoroughfare from the late 1800s through the 1950s. Front Street not only refers to the new pedestrian-oriented street that anchors the development but also to the district that spans from Columbus Boulevard to Arch Street, up to Prospect Street including the Hartford UCONN Campus.

The Front Street District development is an expanding area just a block from the Connecticut riverfront. It is the commercial support to more than 60,000 daytime employees within walking distance to the street, the Connecticut Science Center, the Children's Museum, and the Marriot Hartford Downtown Hotel. Front Street is anchored by restaurants including Capital Grille, Plan B, Bear's BBQ, El Pollo Guapo, Starbucks, Rush Bowl, and Front Street Bistro & Café. For entertainment, Front Street offers the Apple Cinema, running premier movies. In addition, Infinity Music Hall anchors Front Street with a reputation for bringing some of the best live concerts to the State. It is also a strong Entertainment District for the 19 new apartments that have been developed in the last several years in downtown Hartford.

Front Street District also has developed 121 luxury apartments adjacent to Hartford's City Hall and the Wadsworth Athenaeum. 53 units were added to the district on 81 Arch Street. Both properties are consistently 97% leased.

The Hartford branch of the University of Connecticut is located on Front Street. The campus melds the historical façade of the former Hartford Times building with a contemporary, state-of-the-art educational facility. The state's flagship school brings approximately 4,000 students and faculty to the greater downtown area.

MARKET SUMMARY

Capital City's Signature Retail

In the Central Business District of Hartford, one of the most prolific areas of development has been multi-housing residential. Hartford's goal is to create an active 18-hour live-work city that will support a dynamic workforce for Hartford and the greater Hartford region.

There are currently 19 multifamily residential development projects either recently completed, already under construction or approved and in the pipeline and just over 3,000 new apartments built since 2018. The Capital Region Development Authority (CRDA) reports the current occupancy has been running in a range of 95-98%.

The city of Hartford has seen a boost in activity in recent years. Significant projects including Dunkin' Donuts Park, a boost in the restaurant/entertainment sector, and redevelopments has turned a lot of attention to the capital city, thus bringing in private and public investment dollars.

It has been reported that individuals and families appear reluctant to curb the frequency in which they dine out and socialize, despite higher prices, which has positive implications for single-tenant demand moving forward. Spending across restaurants and bars rose 1.6 % in October of 2022, the largest monthly gain recorded across retail segments. Restaurants may receive a boost in patronage with the cost to feed 10 people at home expected to rise 20 % on an annual basis.
