AREA OVERVIEW

UPSTATE SOUTH CAROLINA

The Upstate is the region in the westernmost part of South Carolina, United States, also known as the Upcountry, which is the historical term. Although loosely defined among locals, the general definition includes the ten counties of the commerce-rich I-85 corridor in the northwest corner of South Carolina. This definition coincided with the Greenville–Spartanburg–Anderson, SC Combined Statistical Area, as first defined by the Office of Management and Budget in 2015.

The region's population was 1,647,112 as of 2020. Situated between Atlanta and Charlotte, the Upstate is the geographical center of the "Char-lanta" mega-region.

After BMW's initial investment, foreign companies, including others from Germany, have a substantial presence in the Upstate; several large corporations have established regional, national, or continental headquarters in the area.

Greenville is the largest city in the region with a population of 72,227 and an urban-area population of 540,492, and it is the base of most commercial activity. Spartanburg and Anderson are next in population.

In fact, the Greenville-Spartanburg-Anderson MSA was ranked seventh in the nation by site consultants considering the top markets for economic development. Many financial institutions have regional offices located in downtown Greenville.

Other major industry in the Upstate is the healthcare and pharmaceuticals. Prisma Health System and Bon Secours St. Francis Health System are the area's largest in the healthcare sector, while the pharmaceutical corporation of Bausch & Lomb have set up regional operations alongside smaller recently developed local companies like IRIX Manufacturing, Incorporated and Pharmaceutical Associates. The Upstate is also home to a large amount of private sector and university-based research.

WHAT OUR CLIENTS ARE SAYING...

"I can't imagine my journey without Dustin and Daniel. These guys are very relationship-driven and not transactional-based. Their passion for the business shines by the way they work for their clients."

- David Simmons, Franchisee of Voodoo Brewery

"We started working with Dustin and Daniel about a year ago, but their reputation certainly preceded them. They were presented to us as the "young and hungry" power brokers who wanted to talk less, and prove themselves with results. They are proactive, resourceful, and tenacious. More importantly, they're honest and just a blast to work with!"

- Nauman Panjwani, VP of SNS Properties
