Meet Your Agent

A native to Richmond, Bill brings his decades of construction industry, project and property management experience since 1995 all together under the prestigious Joyner banner. Having developed market knowledge and industry-related relationships to assist his clients, his architecture and construction industry experience provide the benefit of helping clients envision the possibilities of spaces. Bill has a mission of empowering and positioning businesses and investors to make the best possible real estate decisions. Bill dedicates himself to good communication and providing top quality service to his clients before, during and after the transaction is complete.

Born and raised in Richmond, Bill has a well founded knowledge of the area and local market. His passion for real estate began through his education at Virginia Tech receiving a Bachelor of Architecture degree. He subsequently gained a strong construction background as a project manager for nine years with a local mill-work subcontractor. Ongoing experience as an investor and property manager in a family real estate business has allowed Bill to be uniquely tuned in to the needs of small business and property owners. He is a member of the National Association of Realtors, Virginia Association of Realtors and Richmond Association of Realtors.
