

EASTWOOD VILLAGE

Eastwood Village is a fully completed mixed use project in the heart of East Nashville, providing a gathering place for the community to shop, dine, live and work.

Hobson United Methodist Church built their first building on this property in 1853. In February of 1862, the federal army occupied Nashville and used the church as a hospital and horse stable. Later, the church was used as a school for boys.

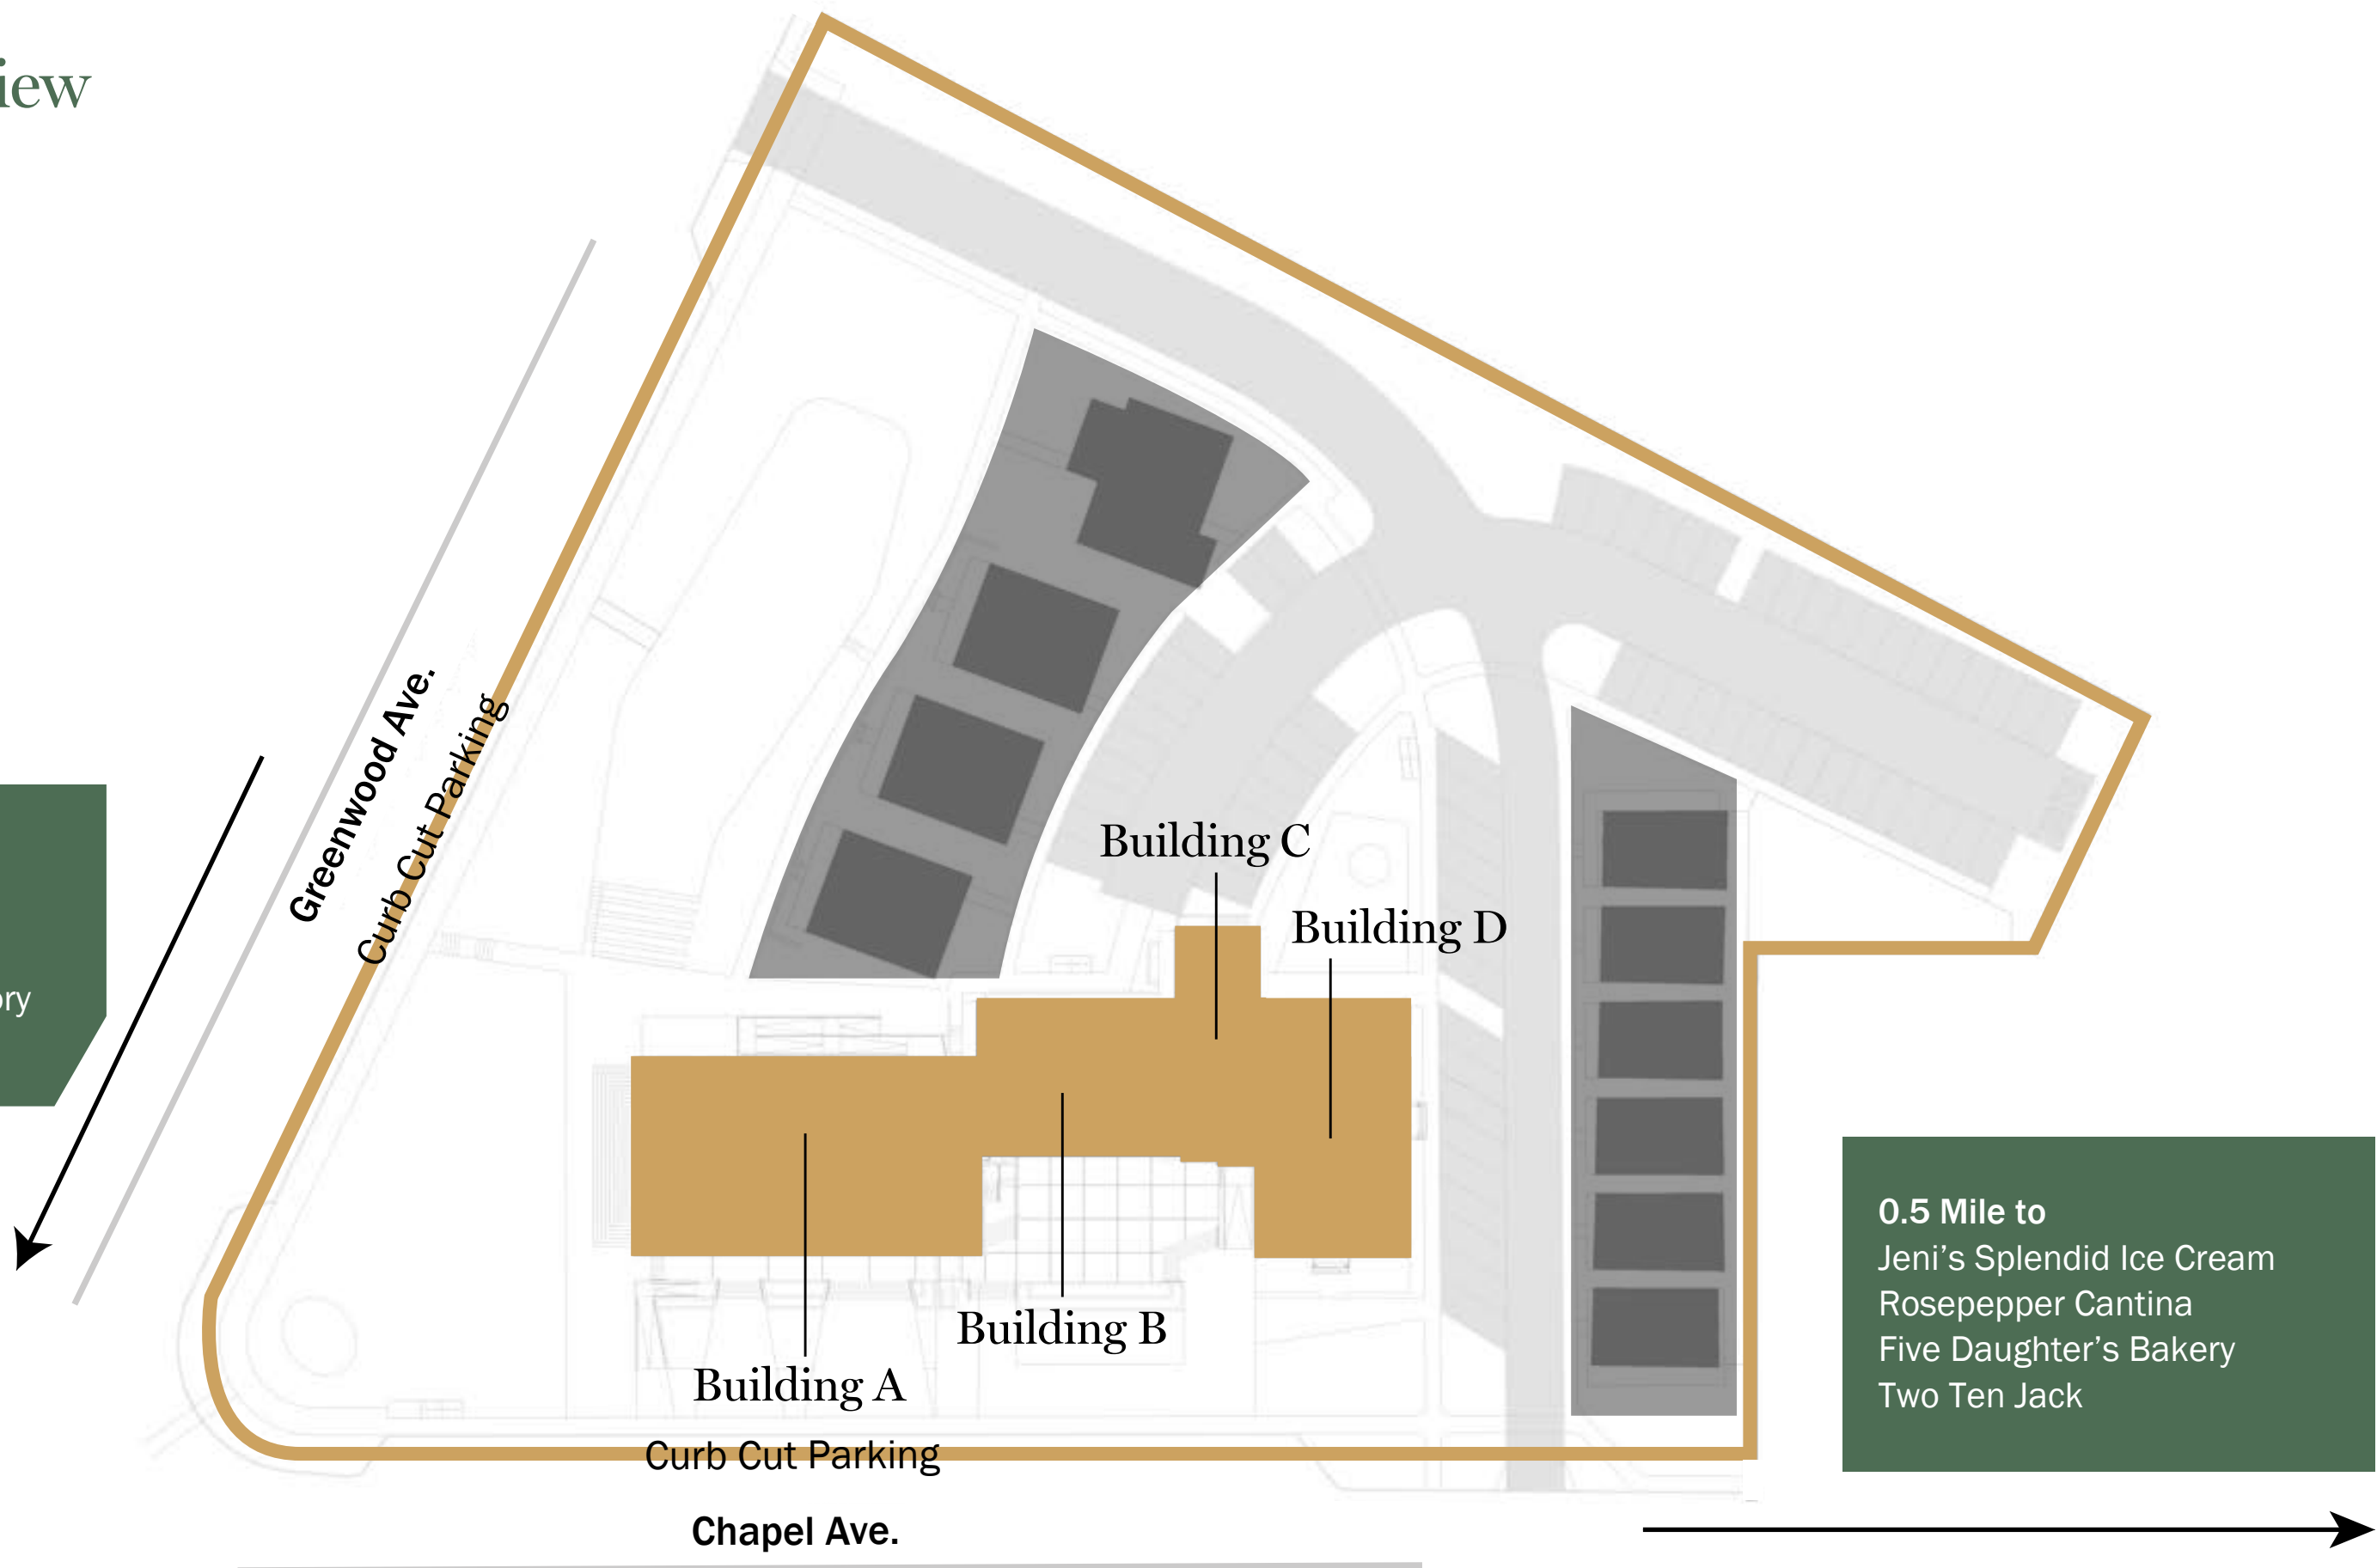

The church expanded through the years with the chapel being constructed in 1868, the main sanctuary facing Greenwood in 1929, and a two-story education building in 1953 to connect the original church and sanctuary.
