AREA OVERVIEW

Located at 6518 Antelope Road in Citrus Heights, this property sits just under 1.5 miles from the vibrant Roseville/Placer County border—an area experiencing dynamic growth and transformation. South Placer County, home to the thriving Roseville/Rocklin submarket, has outpaced every other submarket in the Sacramento region, fueled by a steady influx of residents from the Bay Area and Los Angeles. This migration has brought fresh energy, innovation, and demand for both commercial and residential development. Citrus Heights, nestled in the heart of this momentum, benefits from its strategic location just ± 80 miles northeast of San Francisco, offering a compelling blend of suburban comfort and metropolitan accessibility.

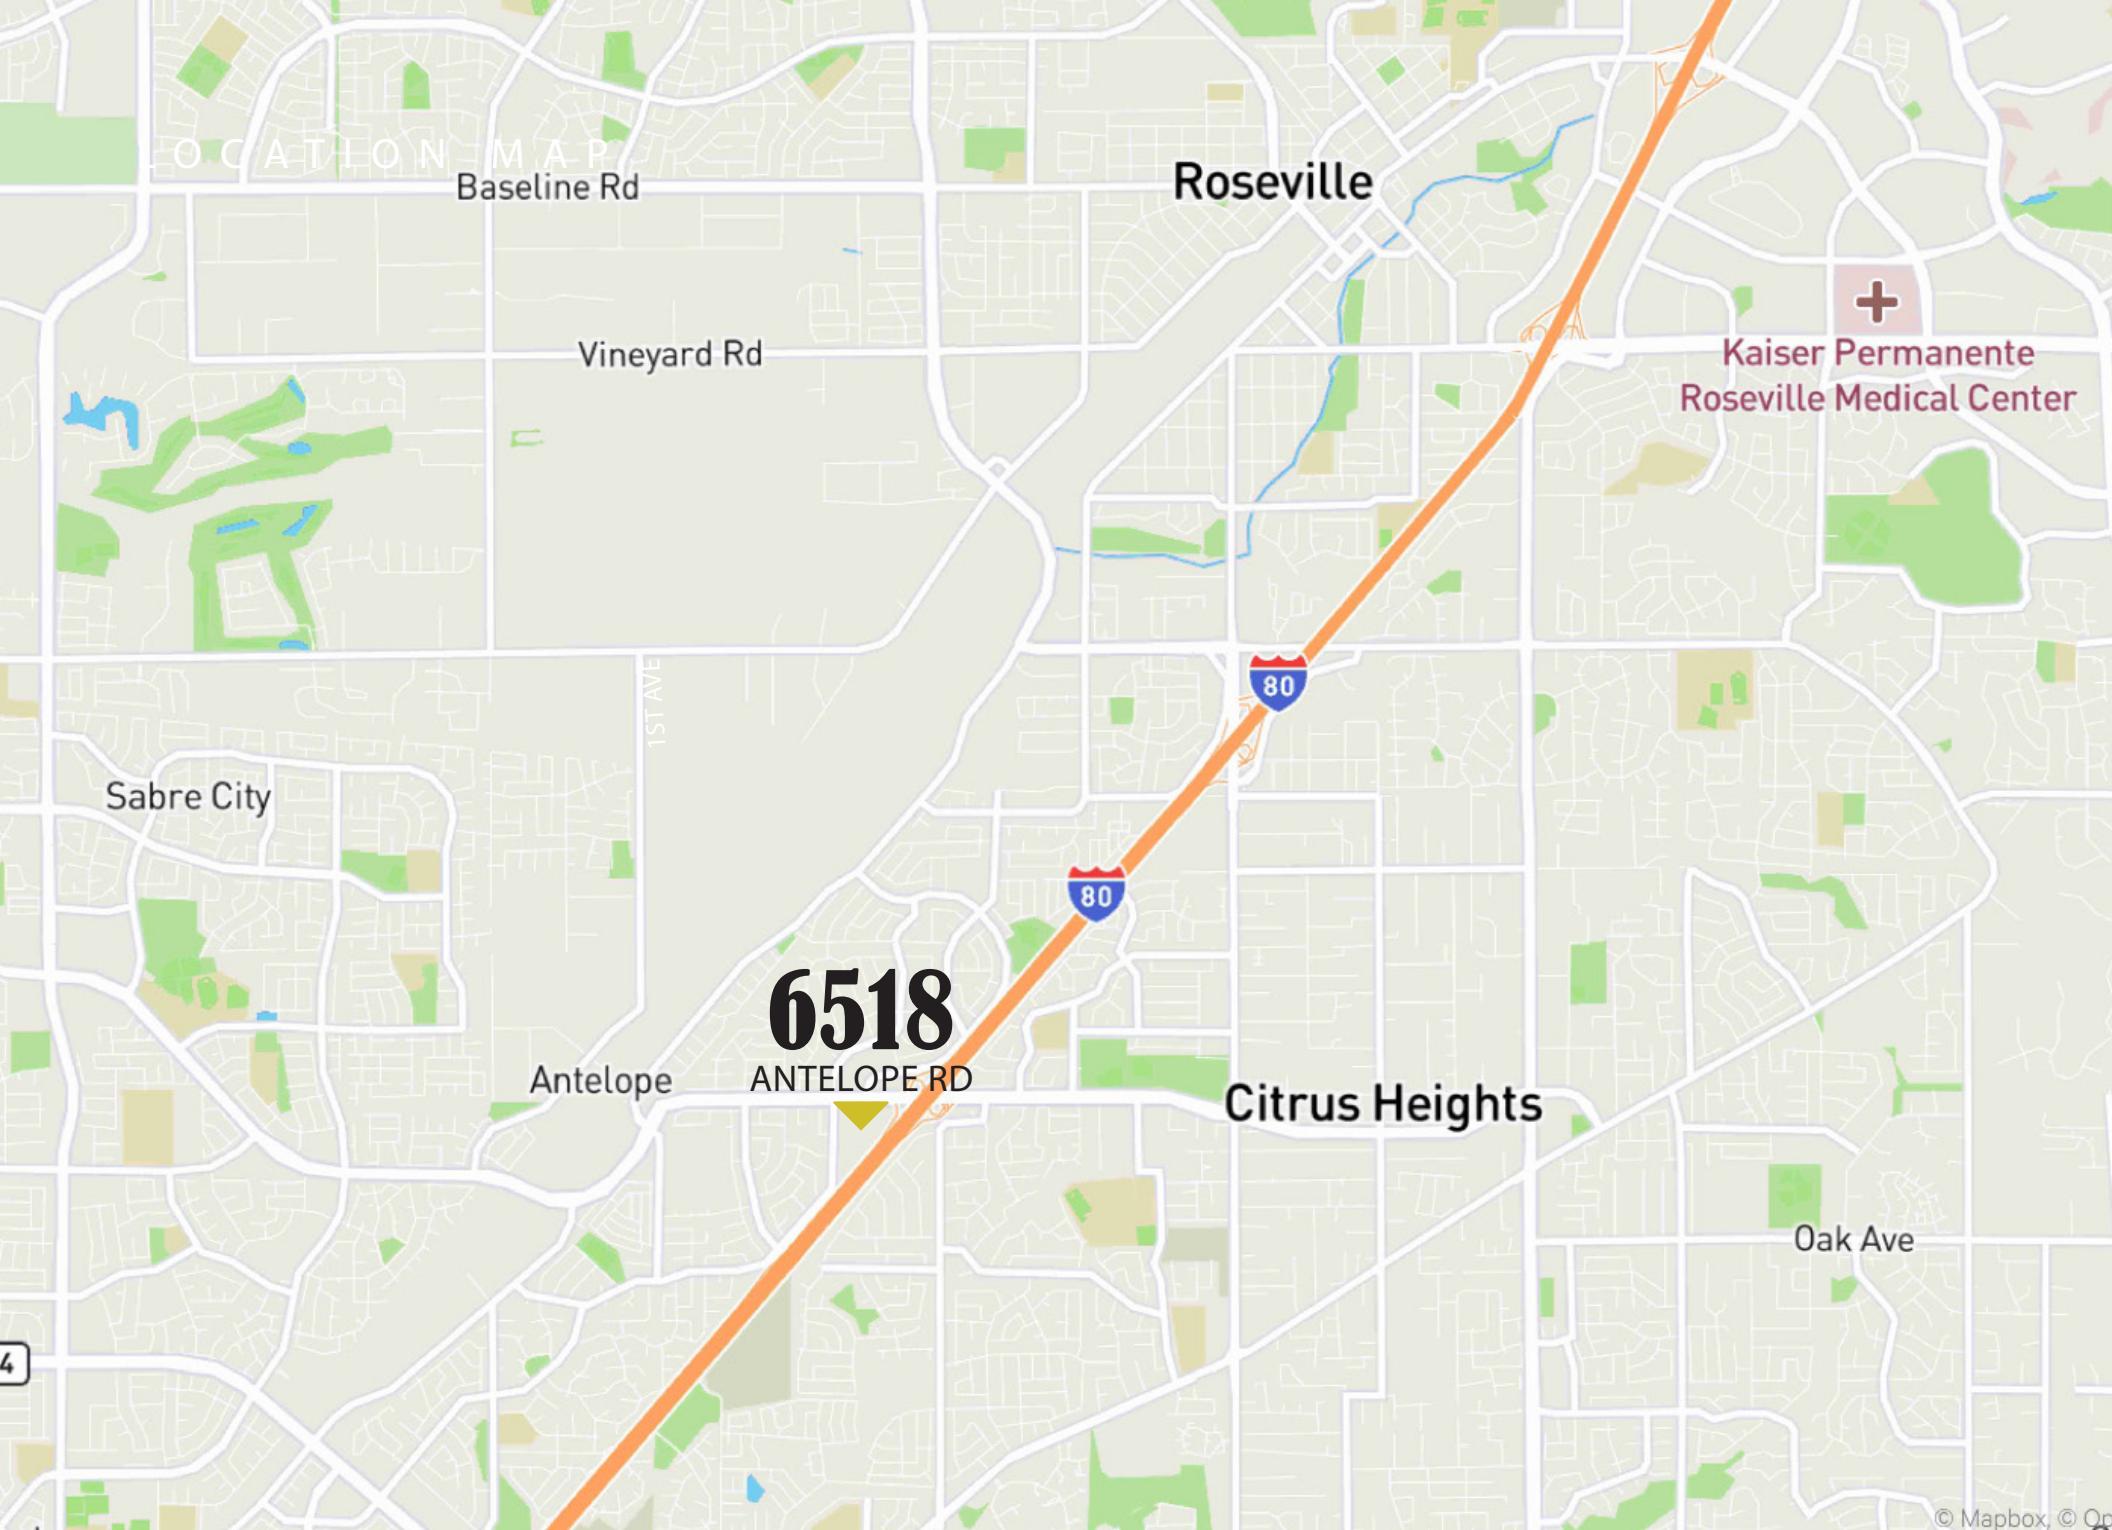

The region's upward trajectory began in the early 1980s with Hewlett-Packard's relocation from the Bay Area to Roseville, setting the stage for decades of economic expansion. Today, Placer County continues to attract new and growing businesses, creating a ripple effect of opportunity and infrastructure development. With easy access to Interstate 80, Citrus Heights offers seamless connectivity to major employment hubs, retail centers, and recreational destinations. The area surrounding Antelope Road is a prime example of this evolution—where business potential meets residential appeal in a community that's both established and forward-looking.
