Allapattah Cold Storage

1930 NW 23rd Street | Miami, FL 33146

For Lease/Sale

Property Description

Rare owner-user opportunity to acquire a fully built-out, FDA-compliant cold storage facility in Miami's Allapattah submarket — one of the most supply-constrained infill industrial corridors in Miami-Dade County. Offered for sale (can be delivered vacant at closing), and for lease, the ±30,656 SF facility is approximately 75% refrigerated/cooler space constructed. This existing infrastructure eliminates the extended build-out timeline and seven-figure capital cost typically required to convert dry industrial space into a compliant temperature-controlled facility. The facility is purpose-built for perishables, food, protein, produce, and floral distribution operations: a predominantly single-story, clear-span warehouse layout with a second-floor office build-out (no split-level product handling), 5 dock-high doors on a dock platform, clear height of ±20'4", and loading to accommodate trailers.

The property also sits directly on CSX's active, "Downtown Spur" — a legacy Seaboard-era industrial rail line still serving a handful of shippers in the produce district and Allapattah corridor — giving a qualified end-user a genuine rail-served option for bulk perishable or floral freight movement, one of only a few such opportunities remaining in Miami-Dade. The site sits within 5 miles of Miami International Airport, PortMiami, and Downtown Miami, and is equidistant to I-95 and SR 836 (Dolphin Expressway) — a critical combination for import/export-driven perishable and floral distributors that depend on fast airport turnaround for time-sensitive products.

Additional improvements include a new roof and rooftop HVAC system (2017), approximately 4,000 SF of office space, and ample on-site parking. The 0.90-acre parcel is zoned D1 (Industrial), City of Miami, offering continued flexibility for cold storage or alternative industrial uses. The property also sits within both a federal Opportunity Zone and a HUBZone designation, layering potential tax incentives and preferential federal contracting access.
