Hollywood Media District

6860 LEXINGTON AVENUE, LOS ANGELES

As an asset within the Media District, 6860 Lexington benefits from a range of enhanced services designed to support property value, business success, and neighborhood appeal.

ENHANCED SECURITY: Daily neighborhood patrols and dedicated safety teams help secure a welcoming environment.

CLEAN STREETS: Routine power washing, trash collection, and graffiti removal ensure the district remains clean and well-maintained.

STREET BEAUTIFICATION: Ongoing landscaping and maintenance of public areas elevate the pedestrian experience and aesthetics.

BRAND SUPPORT: District-wide campaigns promote the area as a vibrant hub for media, creative industries, and boutique retail.

BUSINESS & COMMUNITY ADVOCACY: A direct line to city services and community resources, with support for tenant relations and infrastructure improvements.

PUBLIC SAFETY COORDINATION: Partnership with LAPD and city agencies to address homelessness, nuisance activity, and emergency response planning.

LONG-TERM ECONOMIC VITALITY: Programs focused on attracting tenants, supporting local businesses, and sustaining property value over time.

SYCAMORE ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICT

District borders are general outlines

The Sycamore District

Once an overlooked industrial pocket anchored by a cement mixing plant, the Sycamore District has become one of Los Angeles' most refined creative destinations. Framed by Santa Monica Boulevard, La Brea, Willoughby, and Highland Avenues, this enclave is now home to an exclusive mix of influential music and media headquarters, retail boutiques, galleries, and upscale dining experiences; a walkable neighborhood with a New York style energy.
