Farmington

TRADE AREA ANALYSIS

FARMINGTON | NEW MEXICO

Farmington is located at the junction of the San Juan River, the Animas River, and the La Plata River, and is located on the Colorado Plateau. Farmington is the largest city in San Juan County, one of the geographically largest counties in the United States covering 5,538 square miles. Farmington lies at or near the junction of three important highways: US Hwy. 550, US Hwy. 64, and NM Hwy. 371. The primary industries of San Juan County are the production of petroleum, natural gas and coal. Major coal mines are the Navajo and San Juan mines, operated by BHP Billiton southwest of Farmington. The coal mined from the Navajo and San Juan mines is used entirely for fuel for the nearby Four Corners Generating Station to produce electric power.

FARMINGTON TARGETED INDUSTRIES

Energy & Manufacturing

Economic activity ranges from natural resource production and power generation to manufacturing, assembly, transportation and data centers. Tremendous opportunities exist to capitalize on the region's natural resources, infrastructure, production capacity and know-how coming from years of drilling in the San Juan Basin.

Agriculture

The area has a long history of productive agriculture and is a prominent part of the region's economic base. The San Juan Basin is particularly well suited for the production of biofuels, agrotourism and to pairing the production of food with food processing based on factors such as the existing skills of our current workforce.

Tourism

The Farmington area is the hub for tourism in the Four Corners and is the center of the National Geotourism Region. They are the center of adventure and have a wealth of tourist attracting amenities.
