WANDER

AND WONDER

The Turing Building is moments from Europe's largest new park in 150 years. From wetlands teeming with wildlife to award-winning gardens, Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park's 560 acres provide the luxury of space, surrounded by the legacy of London 2012.

Both Lee Valley VeloPark and the iconic London Aquatics Centre give everyone the chance to train like an Olympian. Meanwhile, the restored waterways, jogging paths, and cycling routes provide a place to unwind and think.

Even the air is better for you here. Named one of the healthiest places to work in London*, Stratford is the ideal space for your people and organisation to thrive. A place where everyone is free to explore a healthier, more balanced lifestyle.

EAST LONDON'S CULTURAL HEART

Stratford is a great place to work, because it isn't just about work. There's a different feel here, with the creative institutions at East Bank combined with the students studying science, technology, engineering and creative disciplines, it's a powerhouse of culture and learning unlike anything else in London.

BBC

A purpose-built base for BBC Music, the new East Bank site will incorporate state-of-the-art recording and rehearsal studios to reach audiences in new ways. Opening in 2025, It will also host all of the BBC's music education and outreach programmes, working alongside schools to inspire local talent.

V&A

V&A East builds on the V&A's founding mission to make the arts accessible to all. Across two sites – the Museum and Storehouse – it will become a campus of creative excellence, equipping young people with the skills they need to flourish, and providing artists with a platform to share their diverse, global stories.

Sadler's Wells

Opening in 2024, Sadler's Wells East will become a cultural destination for local creativity and national impact. With a 550-seat theatre, six dance studios and a wrap-around foyer fit for large-scale showcases, it will provide artists and the community with the space they need to develop, train and perform.

UK FASTEST GROWING EDUCATION HUB →

London's Stratford is fast becoming the place to be for educational institutions seeking new, experiential, inclusive and highly accessible areas for learning. Students are at the heart of this thriving, dynamic, collaborative community where learning, world leading research and enterprise will intersect with culture and extraordinary innovation.

Over 15,000 of the nation's greatest minds are studying in Stratford across seven higher education universities and colleges, including UCL East and London College Fashion, UAL. Across a range of established and future industries, graduates are tackling subjects from data science, cyber security and artificial intelligence to creative media, games development and fashion design.

Stratford is home to world-class academic institutes and think tanks such as the Institute of Global Prosperity, Global Disability Innovation Hub and the Institute of Finance and Technology. All this talent and more is located right on the doorstep to Stratford Cross.

London College of Fashion, UAL ↑

UAL's London College of Fashion campus is intent on taking advantage of Stratford's emerging collaboration between the arts, learning and creativity. Hosting its first students from September 2023, it's eager to help students, staff and alumni find influence in both the nearby area and its rich diversity.

UCL EAST ↑

The biggest development in UCL's near 200-year history, UCL East is the next chapter in the university's disruptive thinking. The campus – minutes from the heart of Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park – offers exciting new degrees and the space needed to tackle the biggest challenges facing our planet.

ELIZABETH LINE

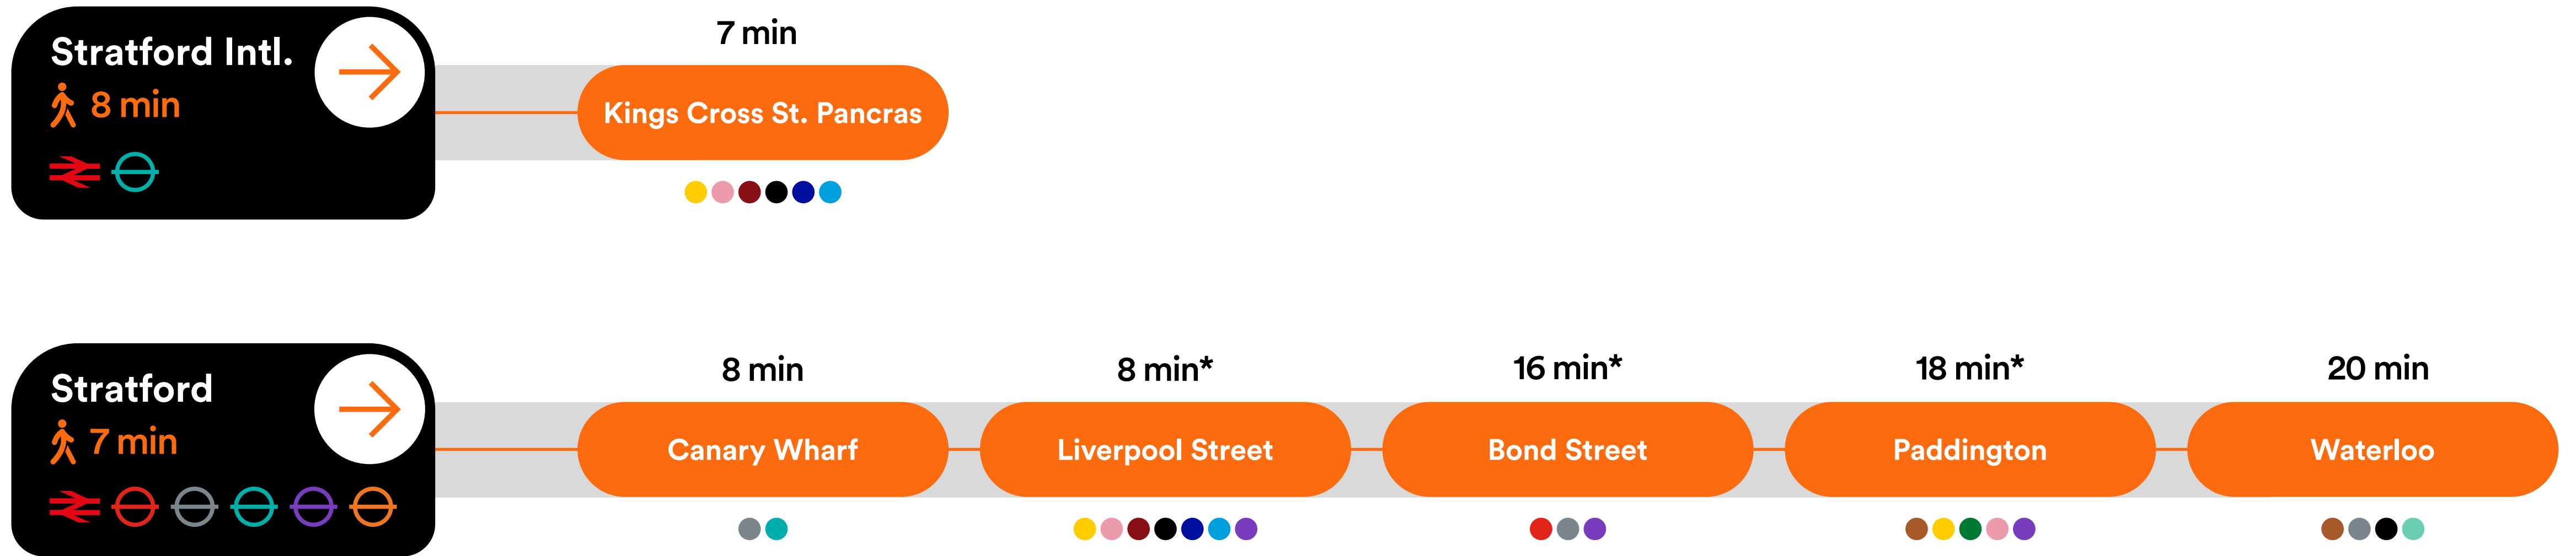

THE CONNECTIONS

→ CLOSER BY THE MINUTE

One of the best-connected destinations in London, Stratford is closer than you think.

The Elizabeth Line has transformed London. With lightning-fast connections to Liverpool Street, Tottenham Court Road and Paddington in under 20 minutes, and Heathrow in less than an hour. The Javelin train can have you in Kings Cross in just seven minutes. Add in National Rail, DLR, Central and Jubilee lines and getting into central London couldn't be easier.

If you're looking to venture further afield, East Anglia, Essex and the South East are all within easy reach of Stratford. You could even make it to the coast, with direct trains getting you there in under an hour.

*Via Elizabeth Line

The Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park – soon to welcome the renowned cultural institutions of the East Bank – the London Stadium and Westfield Stratford City are all five minutes walk from the The Turing Building’s front door. You can also get to both Stratford and Stratford International stations on foot, from which Central London is just 15 minutes away.

LENDLEASE

PLACES FOR EVERYONE

Lendlease helped deliver the Olympic Village for 2012, and is continuing to influence Stratford's future.

With a focus on customers, diversity, and sustainability, Lendlease shapes cities, connects communities and delivers workplaces fit for evolving businesses. Our global portfolio stretches from Sydney's International Towers to the 9/11 Memorial and Museum in New York, while, closer to home, we have developed Google's Kings Cross headquarters, the BBC's London expansion and Manchester's Media City.

Today, Lendlease is determined to create a greener future, and Stratford Cross is in an urban regeneration project that differs from many others across the city. Leading with sustainability, the development encompasses workplaces, green space, homes and retail to create a destination which blurs the lines between hospitality, residential and commercial.

Lendlease has been central to Stratford's transformation
