WHY CENTRAL SC?

The Central SC region is composed of South Carolina's capital city, Columbia, and eight surrounding counties: Calhoun, Clarendon, Fairfield, Kershaw, Lexington, Newberry, Orangeburg and Richland. Together, these areas host an average workforce of over 460,000 dedicated professionals.

Conveniently located in the center of the state and halfway between New York and Miami, the Central SC region is crossed by four major interstates running through SC, providing commuters and transporters superior access.

LEXINGTON COUNTY

Just a stone's throw from our state capital and situated in the center of the state, Lexington County is ripe for businesses looking for convenience and a bustling business environment. Key transportation assets like the Columbia Metropolitan Airport are located within the county, while the Charlotte Douglas International Airport and the Port of Charleston are located within a two-hour drive of the county. These resources, combined with the presence of leading local educational institutions and one of the highest population growth rates in the state, have contributed to landing some of the world's most recognizable brands like Amazon, Michelin North America, and Home Depot.
