PINELLAS PARK, FLORIDA

Pinellas Park is a progressive, growing city of approximately 55,498 residents as of July 1, 2025, with a diversified economy based firmly in manufacturing, sales, and services. Pinellas Park offers the advantages of a large, metropolitan area, while retaining a small town atmosphere. The City is situated on the Pinellas peninsula in the heart of Florida's west coast. It is directly located 15 miles west of Tampa and 5 miles generally north of downtown St. Petersburg.

Major industries with headquarters or divisions located within the City's boundaries include pharmaceuticals, optical equipment and product manufacturing; retail merchandising, and medical equipment manufacturing. In addition, the City has a large diversified base of mid-sized manufacturing, such as various products produced by tool and die and plastic manufacturing. The city has three concentrations of retail business all along Park Boulevard. At 49th Street, near the historic center of town, one finds traditional shops, small businesses, and restaurants. Just to the east, at U.S. 19, the Shoppes at Park Place anchor the city's second retail hub with big-box retailers and a large cineplex. At the western edge of the city, near 66th Street and Belcher Road, are more big box retailers, ethnic specialty shops and restaurants, and the enormous Wagon Wheel and Mustang flea markets.

The City of Pinellas Park is located in the heart of Pinellas County. The City is strategically located between St. Petersburg and Clearwater and has excellent access to Tampa, central Florida, and the best beaches in the United States. The City of Pinellas Park has a larger concentration of industry and commercial business relative to land area than any other city in Pinellas County. The City's Gateway area, comprised of 245 acres, should be developed for retail, industrial, commercial, and residential use in the next few years.

#4 TAMPA-ST. PETERSBURG

Though Tampa-St. Petersburg might fly under the radar compared to its neighbors—the colorful Miami and heavily touristed Orlando—the metro area is no slouch amid Florida’s formidable peers. Tampa’s sunny climate, year-round sports, no state income tax, and booming economy have created a longtime draw for workers and retirees alike, leading Money magazine to name Tampa the ninth best place to live in the United States in 2022. The metro area has proven a good place for real estate investment capital to live as well, with 10-year annualized total returns of 8.6 percent in NCREIF’s NPI. Tampa moved up 14 spots in Emerging Trends’ U.S. Markets to Watch over the past year, the most improved ranking among Florida’s major metro areas (and tied for highest upward movement in the state with Deltona/Daytona Beach and Gainesville); Tampa is also the first U.S. Market to Watch for homebuilding prospects.

TAMPA-ST. PETERSBURG TRAILING TOTAL RETURNS ANNUALIZED AS OF 2025 Q2

Source: NCREIF NPI Database, accessed 2025 Q3

Tampa models an enviable economy with strong growth, high-paying job drivers, and economic diversity. The MSA’s population grew 1.5 percent per year from 2013 to 2023, approximately 2.5 times the national pace. Similarly, Tampa’s job growth has nearly doubled the national pace over the 10 years ending August 2025. The metro area is driven by white-collar jobs, particularly in the financial services sector. The share of private office-using jobs is 39 percent higher in Tampa than in the United States overall, while financial services jobs’ share is 59 percent higher here. There are four noteworthy finance and insurance companies with over 5,000 jobs in the metro area. But despite this notably outsized industry cluster, Moody’s Analytics gives the area an industrial diversity score of 0.83 (U.S. = 1.0), which ranks fourth most diverse among the 390 ranked MSAs.

Housing affordability is perhaps Tampa’s greatest headwind, as Moody’s data on the cost of living puts Tampa’s relative costs at 111 percent of the national average. Homeowner’s insurance expense now ranks among the 10 highest nationally. Rising costs might slow in-migration from the 50,000 to 70,000 the metro area saw each year from 2021 to 2023, which calculated to a top 10 rate per capita for metro areas with more than 1 million residents. Some relief will come from lower interest rates, while Tampa home prices have moderated a bit since their January 2025 peak. But with house prices up 66 percent in the four years ending July 2025, much of Tampa’s previous housing affordability has eroded, with little hope of returning in the near term. On the bright side, costs of doing business remain below national averages (95 percent of the national rate, per Moody’s), with costs considerably lower than U.S. averages for energy, state, and local taxes, and office rent.

Despite these outlined risks, local economic growth is expected to be conducive to outsized real estate returns. Continued in-migration, an attractive business climate, and job growth forecast at 2.3 times the nation’s five-year forecast set the stage for continued demand for Tampa real estate.
