HISTORY:

Located in Sundance Square, the 12 story building was designed by Sanguinet & Staats and was one of the city's first skyscrapers. The building is neoclassical in design and was originally built as the home of the State National Bank. The bank failed in 1915, and shortly thereafter, Samuel Burk Burnett purchased the building. At that time, it was renamed the Burk Burnett Building. Buchanan and Miller were the General Contractors. This was the third building designed by Sanguinet & Staats of similar appearance.

SECURITY:

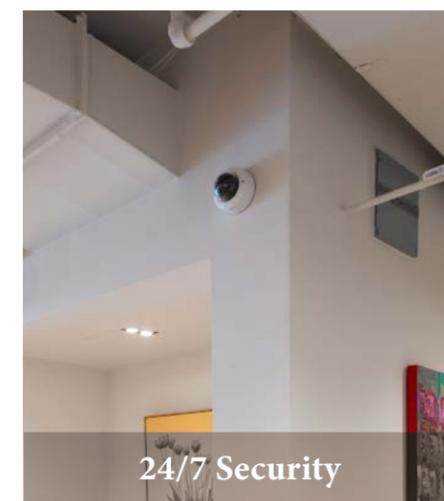

Sundance Square's private security team patrols the streets, buildings, and parking areas around the clock, seven days per week. As an accredited security team, they utilize best-in-class training and equipment to respond to disturbances, emergencies, and medical needs anywhere on campus in under 2 minutes. Backed by a state-of-the-art command center, this constant presence has made Sundance Square one of the safest urban areas in the country. Each building features advanced access control and video surveillance for added peace of mind.

Sundance Square offers immediate access to Fort Worth’s vibrant downtown business district. Just steps away from major financial institutions, law firms, and government offices, it makes collaboration and client meetings seamless. The central location provides excellent visibility and credibility for your business, and Sundance Square’s walkability is a major perk. Employees and clients can easily access a variety of restaurants and coffee shops, retailers, and cultural venues like Bass Hall, Fort Worth Convention Center, and the Water Gardens. The convenience enhances work-life balance and helps attract top talent who value lifestyle amenities close to work. Additionally, with direct access to major highways, the TRE commuter rail, and several parking options, commuting is easier for both employees and clients coming from across the DFW Metroplex.

Why Downtown Fort Worth?

Fort Worth is now the 11th largest city in the United States according to Census 2023 estimates. Major ongoing initiatives further reinforce Downtown’s growth, including Texas A&M University’s construction and commitment to Downtown, the Fort Worth Convention Center expansion, Butler Place’s evolution, Panther Island’s continued progress, Dart Interest’s acquisitions, and Trinity Metro’s TEXRail extension.

Development pipeline momentum remains strong, with more than 978 residential units and 1,724 hotel rooms at various stages of planning. As of year-end, 2024, the Downtown development pipeline included $2.9 billion in construction projects over the next five years.
