The offering

Avison Young is pleased to exclusively represent ownership in the sale of this former department store property. Comprised of 146,000 square feet across two floors, this opportunity provides a buyer with a variety of options and uses whether it be re-leasing some or all of the building or redeveloping the site completely. The 8.77 acre offering sits at the rear of the Stones River Town Centre - one of the largest shopping centers in Murfreesboro - and sits adjacent to a high-performing Home Depot shopping center.

Set in the heart of Murfreesboro along Old Fort Parkway, the busiest street in the city, this offering is the first of it's kind in the region and an opportunity to capitalize on the wave of economic growth that Murfreesboro is experiencing. The multitude of possibilities for the property creates a compelling opportunity for both investors and owner-operators.

Investment highlights

Premier location – located in the bustling Nashville MSA, adjacent to the premier Stones River Town Centre

Large parcel – at 8.77 acres, this parcel is suitable for a variety of redevelopment possibilities

Rare opportunity - this is one of the largest retail buildings available in Middle Tennessee - a market with 3% retail vacancy

Retail and consumer synergy – adjacent to one of the busiest interstate on/off ramps on all of I-24, several of the largest names in retail are located within half a mile of this site, giving this node a super regional draw

Area overview

Located in the geographic center of Tennessee, Rutherford County is the sixth largest county in the state. Only 15 miles to the city limit of Nashville and 30 miles to the downtown core, the extraordinary growth of Rutherford County is due in part to its accessibility via major U.S. interstate highways. I-24 which runs directly through Murfreesboro, and I-65, I-40 and SR-840 are all within 15 miles of the city limit. The county's low property taxes and proximity to Nashville have made it one of the fastest growing residential and retail areas in the state. The largest suburb of Nashville, Murfreesboro has enjoyed substantial residential and commercial growth, with its population increasing 240% between 1990 and 2020 from 44,922 to 152,769. Home to one of the largest universities in the state, Middle Tennessee State University has over 20,000 students enrolled.

Nashville market overview

Nashville has emerged as one of the most dynamic and thriving urban centers in the Southeast and United States. Known for its vibrant culture, rich music history, and rapid economic growth, the city offers an exciting landscape for tenants and developers. Nashville boasts a diverse economy fueled by key industries such as healthcare, education, entertainment, technology, and tourism. With major companies like HCA Healthcare, Nissan, and Asurion, Nashville has become a hub for business and innovation. The city's robust economy continues to attract investment, driving demand across all sectors.

Nashville's strong population growth and its position as a cultural and tourist destination have resulted in increasing demand for multifamily developments and hospitality properties. As an influx of new residents and visitors continue to flock to the city, retail spaces are also undergoing a transformation, with new concepts and experiences being integrated into prime urban locations and adaptive re-use properties as well.
