Wellsboro Borough, located 52 miles northwest of Williamsport, PA, has a population of approximately 3,422. The borough is serviced by US Route 6, which runs east to west across Pennsylvania, and PA Route 287, which provides north to south access to the New York state line.

Known as the gateway to the breathtaking Pine Creek Gorge, often called the “Grand Canyon of Pennsylvania”, Wellsboro offers access to Colton Point and Leonard Harrison State Parks, where visitors enjoy sweeping overlooks, rugged hiking, and brilliant fall foliage. The Pine Creek Rail Trail, running through the gorge, is also popular for biking, hiking, and birdwatching. Beyond its natural beauty, Wellsboro features a charming Victorian downtown lined with shops, galleries, and local eateries that reflect the town’s historic and artistic character. The community is also proud to host the annual “Dickens of a Christmas” celebration, which attracts more than 20,000 visitors each year. Together with other seasonal festivals, outdoor recreation, and nearby state parks, this event underscores Wellsboro’s role as a regional hub for tourism, commerce, & culture.
