EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Endless Possibilities in a Prime OKC Location

This 19,554 SF building on 3.08 acres is more than just a space—it’s an opportunity. Originally built for country singer Henson Cargill, later home to Doc Severinsen’s and most recently the Cimarron Steak House, this property boasts a rich history and unmatched versatility.

Designed for entertainment, it features a Vegas-quality stage and acoustics, a large dance floor, seating for 1,050 guests, five bars, and a fully built-out kitchen with a wood fire pit and five walk-in coolers. A functioning POS system, large signage, and 310 parking spaces add to its appeal.

With I-2 industrial zoning, the potential goes far beyond a restaurant or entertainment venue. Think outside the box! This space could be transformed into a car dealership, furniture showroom, event center, brewery, or something entirely unique.

Located on N Meridian Avenue near Reno in Oklahoma City, this high-visibility property is ready for its next chapter. Don’t miss out on this one-of-a-kind opportunity!
