FISHING INFORMATION

The Chippewa Flowage is Wisconsin's third-biggest body of water (not counting lakes Michigan and Superior), and it deserves special handling by anglers who want to sample its fishery. This lake, comprising 17,000 acres, 90 percent of which is wilderness water, "is a place to fish where you can't go wrong," says Russ Warwick, DNR fisheries technician, in Sawyer County. He describes the Flowage as "by far, the most picturesque body of water you could fish," in Sawyer County. The flowage, created when a power company dammed up two branches of the Chippewa River, holds muskies, walleyes, northern pike, largemouth bass, bluegills, crappies, and pumpkinseed sunfish,

The main source for muskellunge has been the Tommy Thompson Hatchery, named after the former Wisconsin governor. The maximum size for muskies here is usually about 52 inches. The Chippewa also has good natural-producing walleye in the 30-inch range.

With the adequate largemouth and smallmouth bass species, the Chippewa Flowage has received tournament sport fishing enthusiasts.

The lake has two sides to it, very different each, describes Warwick. On the eastern part, the rivers come in. The water is darker, and on the east side is where muskies are most prevalent. On the western part of the Flowage, The panfish are found in biggest numbers in the western part of the Flowage, especially the large slabs. Fishermen will also find northern, but many are small.

According to the folks at Hayward Bait & Bottle Shoppe, 15737 Davis Ave., Hayward, WI 54834, (715) 634-2921, www.haywardbait.com, the muskies average about 28 inches, the walleyes about 14 inches, pike about 15 inches, and the bass roughly 16 inches. "The bluegills and crappies are fabulous," says Warwick. In a body of water this big, of course, the variations from the average can result in some really big fish because there are so many to catch. One example is the 69-pound, 11-ounce muskie taken here in 1949, which set a world record. You don't see fish that big every day, but there may still be a 69-pounder left out there. Anglers claim they've seen lots of big fish, including some larger than 50 inches.

As is the case in some other big flowages, individual parts have their own names. This complicates life in one way, but also makes it possible to find one particular part of what can otherwise be a too-formidable lake to fish. The folks at Hayward Bait & Bottle Shoppe recommended approaching this sprawling lake one relatively small area at a time. Fish each spot the way you have similar water and structure elsewhere. The Hayward Bait folks also cautioned that some precautions are necessary before heading out on Big Chip. The first is to safeguard against getting lost. It's advisable to have both a compass and a GPS if possible, along with good maps. This can keep you from wandering when you should be fishing. Also, this is a boggy lake, with lots of bogs that float. These moving bogs can change the look of any part of the lake from hour to hour, let alone day to day. So it's easy to become disoriented.

With those warnings out of the way, here are some places to look for fish in this vast water. Muskies can be found throughout this complex, but some of the best places are on Crane Lake in the northwestern part of the flowage. Fish the back bays labeled as (Spots 1). You'll also find some northerns in Crane. Look for them in the 5-foot water west of the channel on the south shore. And some of these big fish can be found, as well, in the channel leading to the rest of the lake (Spots 2) and around a stump field (Spot 3) north of Horseshoe Island. The latter spot is a good place to find walleyes as well as big esox. Chief Lake, which forms the southwest corner of the flowage, is another good muskie area, but it yields good numbers of northerns, bass, crappies, and bluegills, as well. Look for largemouths in the small bay at the far north end of Chief (Spot 4). And fish the narrow channel southward, following the breakline (Spot 5), for muskies. Crappies, meanwhile, can often be found along the western shore near the Blackbear Lodge and Campground (Spot 6), while bluegills and muskies are common in a small bay in Chief's southeast corner (Spot 7). Moving east to Scott Lake in the south-central part of the flowage, if you like walleyes, you'll want to work your way around a couple of rock piles close to the south shore (Spots 8) for walleyes. You'll find pretty decent 'eyes in this location; 18-inchers are not uncommon. For muskies, again, head up-lake to the complex of rocks, stumps, islets and snags just about straight north of Flat Island (Spot 9). This mid-lake structure often holds good-size fish that can be tempted with topwater tossed over the top or crankbaits fished at the edges. South of the Lake Chippewa Campground and along both sides of the point that carries County Road CC (Spots 10) are waters that hold lots of panfish. Again, these areas usually produce some of the larger panfish, and 'gills in the 8-inch range are a distinct probability. You may have to do a bit of sorting to limit out on them, but it can be done most days. On the eastern side of the lake, off a big peninsula known as the "Nursery," you will find Hat Rack Island. The entire island complex in this location (Spot 11) is known for producing quality muskies and 'eyes. You'll also find crappies south of the island. Heading southwest to Moonshine Lake (also known as Desire Lake) you will encounter a good selection of bass and panfish in the boggy area just off the channel (Spot 12). You'll want to be a mite careful as you approach this area, though. Don't take the shortcut on the landward side of Al's Bar. There are rocks in this location that come a lot closer to the surface than the 5 feet indicated on the map. And more than one angler has lost a lower unit to their sharp edges. Meanwhile, on the southeast corner of the flowage, look for a sunken island called the "Hot Dog Stand." You'll find muskies at the deep breakline (Spot 13) and smallmouth bass off the rocky shoreline (Spot 14).

Keep in mind that the above locations are just a small sampling of what you can find on the flowage. You'll find others as you fish this big water. Be advised, though, that it wouldn't hurt to hire a guide for the first time or two you're out there. An experienced guide will not only help you find locations in which to get started, but he or she can help keep you out of trouble. As noted, more than one party becomes lost on Big Chip each year. And more than one party loses its lower unit to near-surface rocks. If you're on your first visit to this big flowage, a guide can help you avoid both mishaps and help you catch some nice fish at the same time. The lake has 17 state-owned islands, and Warwick says it's a great vacation spot. Combine that with the excellent fishing possibilities, and you've got a fishing paradise.

41 RESIDENTIAL CONDOMINIUM CONCEPTS

42 In general terms, residential Condominiums take what otherwise might have been an apartment, townhouse or house, and permits 43 individual sales of the separate dwelling Units. All of the dwelling Unit owners own the common areas together and collectively pay 44 for the upkeep and other common expenses. A Condominium, however, is not like living in an apartment because the owner is 45 usually responsible for the maintenance and repair of everything within the Unit - the property manager does not take care of it, as 46 would be the case with a tenant. To understand Condominium ownership, an understanding of certain key concepts is needed.

47 ■ Declaration: The Declaration is a written document that creates a Condominium from one or more parcels of real estate. In the 48 Declaration, the owner declares his or her property to now be a Condominium. The Declaration divides the property into several 49 smaller parcels: Units, which are individually owned, and the Common Elements, which are owned in common by all of the Unit
 50 owners together. The Declaration sets out what percentage of ownership interest in the Common Elements is assigned to each 51 Unit, and the number of votes that the owner of each Unit has in the Association.

52 ■ Declarant: The Declarant is the builder or developer who declares his or her property to be a Condominium by recording the 53 Declaration and plat maps. The Declarant may reserve a period of "Declarant Control" that gives the Declarant time to finish 54 construction of the Condominium project and/or to sell the Units. During this period, the Declarant exercises the powers and 55 responsibilities of the Association through its exclusive right to appoint the directors to the Association board. As the Units are sold 56 to purchasers, elections are held at different intervals and the Unit owners (other than the Declarant) elect an increasing number of 57 the directors. Declarant Control lasts up to ten years in expandable Condominiums and up to three years in other Condominiums.

58 ■ Unit: A Unit is the part of the Condominium that is privately owned and used by the Unit owner. A Unit owner has exclusive 59 ownership and possession of his or her Unit. The statutes define Unit in terms of cubicles of air, enclosed spaces located on one or 60 more floors, and rooms. A Unit may also include structural parts of a building (walls, wood frame) or a Unit may be a whole 61 building, a building plus the surrounding land, or just land (similar to a lot). Units may also include separate areas that are some 62 distance apart. For example, a Unit may include a dwelling plus a storage area, patio or parking space. The boundaries of each Unit 63 are defined in the Declaration, which may describe the perimeter walls, sometimes known as the "perimetric boundaries," the upper 64 boundaries and the lower boundaries. Generally, everything within these boundaries will be part of the Unit. Therefore, each Unit's 65 boundaries may impact the Unit owner's maintenance responsibilities, ability to make improvements or alterations, and insurance 66 liability.

67 ■ Common Elements: Common Elements means everything else in the Condominium that is not a Unit. In a typical residential 68 Condominium, the Common Elements may include the land, the exterior and common areas of buildings (entranceway, halls, 69 elevator, meeting room, etc.), landscaping, roads, any outside parking areas, outdoor lighting, any recreational facilities (swimming 70 pool, tennis courts, clubhouse, etc.) and all other common areas and amenities.

71 ■ Limited Common Elements: The Limited Common Elements are Common Elements that are identified in the Declaration or plat 72 as reserved for the exclusive use of less than all of the Unit owners. Typically, a Limited Common Element will be reserved for the 73 use of just one Unit. Basically, you don't own it individually, but you are the only one who may use it. This exclusive use, however, 74 may be subject to restrictions stated in the Declaration, Bylaws or Condominium rules and regulations. Limited Common Elements 75 may include features like a storage area, patio, balcony, garage parking space, or a boat slip.

76 ■ Percentage Interests: Every Unit owner shares in the ownership of the Common Elements with the other owners. Each Unit is 77 allotted a portion of this ownership interest called the Percentage Interests. The Percentage Interests are stated in the Declaration 78 and come automatically with the ownership of a Unit. The Percentage Interests often determine the share of common expenses that 79 the Unit owner must pay for the repair and maintenance of the Common Elements and for the operation of the Association.
 80 Percentage Interests may be an equal percentage for all Units, in proportion to the square footage of the Units, based upon the 81 location or value of the Units, or based upon some other formula stated in the Declaration.

82 ■ Association: The Association is the entity that the Unit owners use to act together as a group to manage and maintain the 83 Condominium property and finances. This group will be either a nonstock, nonprofit corporation or an unincorporated Association.
 84 Every Unit owner is automatically a member of the Association and votes for the Association directors who, on behalf of the 85 Association, manage and maintain the Common Elements, adopt budgets and set the amount of the fees or assessments paid by 86 the Unit owners for the Association's common expenses. The Association directors typically are responsible for the maintenance of 87 the Condominium property, including lawn and garden care, snow removal, painting, roofs, and amenities such as swimming pools
 88 and tennis courts. They are responsible for collecting assessment fees, maintaining books and records, overseeing reserve funds, 89 preparing financial reports, and filing tax returns. The board of directors is responsible for enforcing the rules and providing 90 disclosure materials for Unit sales. Some or all of these functions may be delegated to a Condominium manager or other 91 professionals such as accountants.

92 ■ Assessment Fees: The Association sets a budget for all of the Condominium expenses and divides those expenses among the 93 Unit owners. These fees are called "common assessments" or "condo maintenance fees" and typically are paid monthly. The 94 Association may also create reserves for future maintenance and repairs.
